Q: How to manage storage space in a Virtual Machine? We have a Virtual Machine that is running the following operating systems: Windows Server 2008 R2 Windows Server 2012 While Windows Server 2008 R2 was part of a hosting package, we're now responsible for managing the server ourselves. Today, I began administering the service and noticed that our 10 GB partition is almost full. How can I move the operating systems to another partition to make more space for our services? A: The easiest method is to use Windows Server 2012 as a guest operating system on your Windows Server 2008 R2 host. Windows Server 2012 requires less space than Windows Server 2008 R2. Edit However, this is not as simple as it seems. As you have stated that you do not have the option of doing so, here is some reasoning, hoping to be of help to others in the same situation. Windows Server 2008 R2 does not include Hyper-V for Windows Server 2008 R2 (meaning you cannot create a virtual machine with that version of Windows Server), so you need to install the hypervisor package in order to do this. If you choose to install Windows Server 2008 R2 as a guest OS, you will not have a way to restore that guest OS from backup, even though you have backed up the host. Also, if you are going to install Win Server 2012 as a guest OS, you will lose the ability to deploy virtual machines with Windows Server 2008 R2 or any previous versions of Windows Server, which I believe is a logical choice. Q: plotting i/o pin voltage with Pyside I have a graphical user interface written in python using the Pyside module to display a complex periodic signal (a sine wave in this case) as a pin on the display. As you can see in the figure, there are no pins displayed, the plot window is empty. How can i see the pins, so that the users can see the displayed wave? This is my code:

import sys from PySide import QtGui, QtCore from PySide.QtCore import * import numpy import time import wave import math def main(): signal = [] for i in range(200): r = numpy.random.random()

AddViewController newViewController.tableView.dataSource = self newViewController.tableView.delegate = self var isFirst: Bool = true var userId = Auth.auth().currentUser?.uid var query = PFUser.query().query?.whereKey("objectId", matchesQuery:"\\(userId!)") query?.findObjectsInBackgroundWithBlock({ (objects, error) -> Void in if error! != nil { print(error) } else { if let foundObjects = objects as? [PFObject] { if let object = foundObjects.first as? PFUser { let isAlreadyConnected = Auth.auth().currentUser?.uid == object.objectId if isAlreadyConnected! {
